1. Important information and who we are

In relation to our services - Processor

For the purposes of data protection laws (including the GDPR), and in relation to the services that Unrival provides to Customers, we act as a data processor, and process personal data on behalf of our Customers.

We provide research services for our Customers and provide them with business-related information on key individuals within target organisations, which are of specific interest to them. All information is based on the terms agreed with our Customers as part of the project deliverables. Our Customers use our services to obtain information on business contacts, (including some personal data), which they then use for their own business needs and interests. Our Customers are therefore data controllers in this context, as they determine the purposes and means of the data processing.

We provide research services for our customers and provide them with business-related information on key individuals within target organisations (data subjects), which are of specific interest to them. This information is gathered from open and freely available public sources which can include:

- Social media networking sites;
- website(s) of the target company;
- industry and news sites; and
- government public data sources.

We only collect the following personal data on key individuals within target organisations and provide this information to our customers, in accordance with our agreed terms of service with them:

- First Name;
- Last Name;
- Salutation (Title);
- Verified Image – a publicly available and accessible image of the individual, for which the individual has chosen to make available in the Public Domain (e.g. in Search engine or on company website); and
- Job Title.

We rely on the lawful basis of legitimate interests when processing any personal data and conduct a Legitimate Interests Assessment in each case, to ensure that our interests are not overriding the interests, or fundamental rights and freedoms of individuals (data subjects). On the basis that the personal data is: (i) limited to the above categories; (ii) publicly available; (iii) business information; (iv) researched and verified for accuracy; and (v) only processed in accordance with customer instructions and our contract for services with customers, we believe such processing is permissible.

Our Customers have their own data protection obligations, as data controllers under the GDPR. Once we provide the results of our research to our customers, we have no control over their use of the information or any personal data, but will provide them with any assistance they require, as their data processor. We only retain the researched personal data for a period of up to 6 months following completion of our customer brief.

If you have any questions about our services, please contact us data.protectionofficer@unrival.net

We will get your express opt-in consent before we share your personal data with any third-party company for marketing purposes.

Opting out

You can ask us or third parties to stop sending you marketing messages at any time by contacting us at any time.

Where you opt out of receiving these marketing messages, this will not apply to personal data provided to us as a result of service purchase, service experience or other transactions.

If we need to use your personal data for an unrelated purpose, we will notify you and we will explain the legal basis which allows us to do so.

Please note that we may process your personal data without your knowledge or consent, in compliance with the above rules, where this is required or permitted by law.

We may have to share your personal data with the parties set out below for the purposes set out in the table in paragraph 4 above.

We require all third parties to respect the security of your personal data and to treat it in accordance with the law. We do not allow our third-party service providers to use your personal data for their own

Request correction of the personal data that we hold about you. This enables you to have any incomplete or inaccurate data we hold about you corrected, though we may need to verify the accuracy of the new data you provide to us.

Request erasure of your personal data. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove personal data where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it. You also have the right to object where we are processing your personal data for direct marketing purposes. In some cases, we may demonstrate that we have compelling legitimate grounds to process your information which override your rights and freedoms.

Request restriction of processing of your personal data. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of your personal data in the following scenarios: (a) if you want us to establish the data's accuracy; (b) where our use of the data is unlawful but you do not want us to erase it; (c) where you need us to hold the data even if we no longer require it as you need it to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or (d) you have objected to our use of your data but we need to verify whether we have overriding legitimate grounds to use it.

Request the transfer of your personal data to you or to a third party. We will provide to you, or a third party you have chosen, your personal data in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format. Note that this right only applies to automated information which you initially provided consent for us to use or where we used the information to perform a contract with you.

Withdraw consent at any time where we are relying on consent to process your personal data. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing carried out before you withdraw your consent. If you withdraw your consent, we may not be able to provide certain products or services to you. We will advise you if this is the case at the time you withdraw your consent.
